

WERRENRATH WILL BE HERE TOMORROW

Grand Concert Will Be Given to Large Audience at the Grand.

AN UNUSUAL EVENT

Advance Seat Sale Excellent Criterion of Intense Interest.

The grand concert by Reinold Werrenrath, scheduled for the Grand opera house tomorrow night, no doubt will be one of the most successful events of the kind ever attempted in this city. The advance seat sale has been abundant and admissions at the Quaker drug store where the sale has been in progress for several days, late yesterday were that the spacious house would be sold out long before the concert begins.

Most powers of this city are well aware that Reinold Werrenrath is among the foremost baritones of the United States. Indeed, many of the critics consider him the very best singer who has been represented on the stage. He has traveled throughout the country and is popular in every part of it, as well as the choicest sojourns.

During the recent Farber concert through this section of the country Miss Parrar was taken ill in Oklahoma City and was forbidden to leave her private car. The concert therefore was given by Mr. Werrenrath, Ada Sosab, harpist, and Richard Epstein, pianist. These artists faced an audience which had come to hear Farber and was disappointed at the disappearance of the noted prima donna. But when Werrenrath gave his first offering to the Handel aria, "Here We Are Winds and Waves," disappointment gave way to enthusiasm.

A Remarkable Success.

Mr. Werrenrath's success grew with the program until he was received three times after his wonderful singing of the "Vision Fairytale." Four more sold out. The audience was equal to realize the presence of a consummate artist, and the tribute was not a single offering less to the excellent in every way. "Daddy Dear" and "First Wishes" were songs as they never before had been heard.

Reinold Werrenrath, Great Baritone,
Who Will Be Heard Here Tomorrow

work enthralling power and the finest dramatic sense.

Mr. Werrenrath now is said to be better voice than ever before in his career, so that of Tulsa's musical world who attend the concert will hear him at his best. All the songs which have contributed to the success of this remarkable singer will be included in the program, which will be arranged with great care by the director, Robert Hale Carson and W. H. Sturman.

If you have not already engaged your seats for this extraordinary attraction, it would be well for you to do so as early as possible, otherwise you will run the risk of having to stand.

Columbia Gas & Electric, which advanced from 14 1/8 to 15 2/8 on an active market of over 3,000 shares, officials representing the city of Baltimore are in Pittsburgh today consulting with the mayor and others in authority on the gas business. Although nothing definite has been announced, the possibilities of the company securing the Baltimore franchise looks very favorable. There are many ups on the stock that it will sell to 20 or 25 in the near present move; however, many similar statements have been made in the past that it is hard to place much faith in it. For a long pull we would advise the purchase of this security, but not for any quick speculative action.

Pure Oil sold at the beginning of the week at 29 1/2 to 29 1/8, with the dividend on, and ex-dividend at 19 to 18 1/8, which is equivalent to better than 24 3/4 for the stock, a new high record price. With the steady advancement in prices of crude oil and refined products, the company should be able to maintain a dividend rate of 6 per cent quarterly and pay ample dividends. There is talk of an extra dividend of $2.50 a share which again will hold in June. There seems to be a rumor out that the Pure Oil company will consolidate with the Wayland Oil & Gas Co., and we cannot see any advantage to the Pure Oil making such arrangement as Wayland oil & Gas Co. earned but 7 1/2 per cent last year on par $1, and the stock is now selling around $12.

Oklahoma Fuel Supply advanced from 39 to 40 with a good demand, and little stock offered. The buying seems to be of good character, and looks as if there would be an upward swing in this market in the near future.

Oklahoma Fuel Oil sold to the extent of over 250 shares at 17 1/2 to 18 1/8 and back to 17 7/8. We believe that this stock offers a good advancement at present prices, netting better than 10 per cent, combined with the speculative possibility that it will sell higher during the year. The stock has not advanced up until the present time in accordance with their increased earnings.

Oklahoma Natural Gas sold off to 98 on small sale of 23 shares, and closed 98 1/2 offered at 100. At present the stock looks very cheap, as their present dividend rate is more than assured, and there may be a possibility of an extra dividend towards the latter part of the year. The earnings for February were over $56,000 gross.

Oklahoma Natural Gas company's pipe line from cities and towns for February was around $192,000, while their total gross earnings will probably be around 120,000. Oklahoma City is showing a big increase and it looks as if some of the boom days will come back again. The market for the stock was down at 97 1/2.
